UNDERSTANDING AUTARKY

The sole purpose of a diet – whether for a dog, ourselves or indeed any other creature – is to provide nutrients. These nutrients need to be supplied in appropriate levels and must be in balance with one another in order to be useful and effective. Contrary to increasingly popular belief the dog is a, carnivorous-omnivore, not a true carnivore. This means that the dog can thrive upon a combination of animal and plant based material when included in their diet.

NATURAL ANTIOXIDANTS

As your dog works excess free radicals are produced through the process oxidation. Therefore, a blend of additional antioxidants are there to help 'mop-up' those free radicals and provide further support to your dog's own physiological systems.

GRAIN-FREE RECIPE

It is important to understand that dogs are not true carnivores, they are what are known as carnivorous-omnivores. This means that their digestive systems are adapted to digest meat, grains, vegetables and berries. A grain free diet may be more appropriate for those dogs who have developed an intolerance to the proteins in grains.

NO ARTIFICIAL COLOURS, FLAVOURS OR PRESERVATIVES

We protect all of our recipes with the natural antioxidant package, which helps ensure that each bowl is as fresh and tasty as the day it was packed.

JOINT SUPPORT

Within the two grain-free recipes there is a unique joint care package, which provides nutrients to support joint health and flexibility.

HYPOALLERGENIC & WHEAT-GLUTEN, SOYA FREE

Autarky has been formulated to contain ingredients that are reported to be more acceptable and less likely to cause dietary upsets.

Kibble sizes may vary from brand to brand. However, you can trust Autarky to provide the ideal kibble size from years of research and popularity. Autarky Puppy/Junior has a kibble size that is small (11mm x 12mm) with a small round hole in the middle, which makes it easier to form into a mash and for the puppy to crunch down on. The remaining Autarky range have the same kibble size (taking into account natural variation), which is approximately 14mm x 14mm x 7mm.

INTRODUCING A NEW FOOD

Unlike us who can enjoy a different meal everyday a dog's digestive system needs time to adjust to a new food. Therefore, it is important to introduce any new food gradually over a period of about 5-7 days.

DID YOU KNOW?

PROTEIN

Your dog is made up of many different types of proteins which is found in their muscles, skin, hair and even some hormones. Protein is made up of building blocks called amino acids. Therefore, protein quality is based on how well the amino acid profile of the diet meets the needs of the animal.

CHICKEN, LAMB OR FISH MEAL

These by-products have been heat dried, which means most of the moisture and some of the fat have been removed, leaving a concentrated source of valuable protein that is bacteriologically safe.

MEAT & ANIMAL DERIVATIVES

Meat & animal derivatives is a legal definition that refers to any animal ingredients from fillet steak to chicken meal used within dog food.

HYPOALLERGENIC

When the term is used it is with the intention of indicating that the ingredients used within that dog food are less likely to cause a dietary reaction. It does not mean that the food is universally useful to all dogs with allergies. It will depend upon what they are allergic to.

MAIZE

Maize is a useful ingredient and certainly no filler! Maize is very rarely associated with allergies in dogs, so makes a very useful cereal. Maize is a rich source of carbohydrates, providing energy and dietary fibre, as well as some essential fatty acids (important for cell membrane, skin and coat health).

PRAIRIE MEAL

Prairie meal is not a cheap source of protein, but has a very special amino acid profile, which can be used to balance up animal protein for muscle support and also helps to maintain a good coat colour.

GRAIN FREE

It is important to understand that dogs are carnivorous-omnivores not true carnivores, so it's no surprise cereal grains can form a valuable proportion of a dog's diet. However for those dogs who have developed an intolerance to the proteins in grains, a grain free diet may be more appropriate.

WHEAT, GLUTEN AND SOYA FREE

Autarky diets are wheat gluten and soya free recipes. These two ingredients are perceived by some and reported by others to be one of the more common cause of allergies in dogs.

FOR PUPPIES & YOUNG DOGS

FEEDING A PUPPY

When feeding your puppy or a new litter with a complete feed, the ideal time to introduce a kibble is around 3 weeks of age, and to mix with a little warm water to form a porridge like meal.

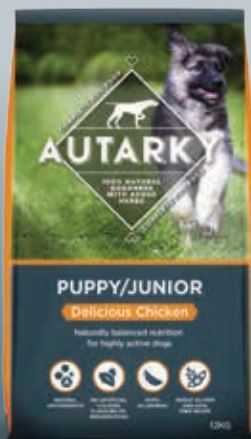

Care should be taken to ensure that all puppies in the litter get an equal share. Once weaned, the food can be fed dry or moistened with a bit of water to the consistency the puppies prefer.

Puppies stomachs and digestive systems are still developing, so divide the total amount of feed into 6 meals a day up to 2 months of age, reducing to 4 meals from 2-3 months and gradually reduced to 2 meals per day thereafter.

Do not overfeed your puppy, it is important to make sure growth is steady so there is no unwanted weight on their developing bones and joints.

Always ensure a ready supply of fresh, cool water is available.

Water is often a forgotten nutrient however, hydration is key to a successful and healthy working dog. A loss of just 3% can impact on performance; reducing capacity to work, decreasing strength and even lead to overheating - even on cool days.

WEIGHT MANAGEMENT

As with humans, weight management is very important to stay healthy both inside and out.

It is our responsibility to ensure we manage our dogs weight - from puppy through to maturity. Overfeeding puppies can put extra strain on their developing joints and in some cases senior dog's metabolism naturally slows down over time, making weight gain a lot easier.

Body condition scoring is an ideal way to monitor your dog's weight. By looking at your dogs rib area you can have an understanding of your dogs weight.

- Ribs are easily felt and seen? Your dog might be too thin and a review of their diet needed.
- Ribs easily felt but not seen? Your dog is the ideal weight
- Ribs very difficult to feel - Your dog could be obese and a diet review needed.

IF YOU ARE AT ALL UNSURE OR WANT TO KNOW MORE ABOUT BODY CONDITION SCORING, PLEASE DO CALL OUR NUTRITIONAL HELPLINE ON 0845 345 2630

FEEDING TREATS

Feeding treats is often something that occurs in many dog households everywhere. However, sometimes feeding a treat is not often suitable and can sometimes contribute to weight gain. Therefore, feed treats when only required and remember that they are adding to your dogs overall daily food intake.

WATER

Always ensure a ready supply of fresh, cool water is available.

Water is often a forgotten nutrient however, hydration is key to a successful and healthy working dog. A loss of just 3% can impact on performance; reducing capacity to work, decreasing strength and even lead to overheating - even on cool days.
